OUACHITA!

Freshman enrollment up 15.4% over 1986

Freshman enrollment at Ouachita is up 15.4 percent this fall with total enrollment, 1,428, running 1.8 percent ahead of last year.

Mike Kolb, Ouachita's registrar, said the school is not only pleased with the increase in enrollment but also with quality of the new students.

"The entering freshman class continues Ouachita's trend toward higher ACT scores," Kolb said, pointing out that the average composite score rose to slightly over 20, compared to 18.1 three years ago.

Included in the freshman class are record numbers of nine Arkansas Governor's Scholars and six National Merit Finalists.

Ouachita President Daniel R. Grant said, "We are very pleased with both the quantitative and qualitative increases in the entering freshman class. Another encouraging development is the higher rate of retention of students from last year. It appears that our hard work of improving retention is taking effect."

$154,467 received from Turner estate

A bequest of $154,467 has been received by Ouachita from the estate of Mrs. Luella M. Turner of Batesville.

The undesignated gift was included in Mrs. Turner's will, her attorney said, because Mrs. Turner, unable to finish high school, "wanted to help young people attain a college education."

Ouachita President Daniel R. Grant said, "This kind of stewardship in estate planning is not only an important source of strength for this university; it constitutes a tremendously encouraging vote of confidence to all who are associated with Ouachita—students, faculty, staff and alumni."

The proceeds of the estate were shared equally between Ouachita and the Arkansas Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

$133,000 Holland gift to finance loans

A $133,000 bequest from the estate of Mrs. Opal W. Holland of Nashville, Ark., will be used to finance student loans at Ouachita.

Roger Harrod, OBU's vice president for development, said Mrs. Holland "wanted to ensure that deserving young people have an opportunity to study at Ouachita. Her gift greatly enhances Ouachita's ability to meet the financial needs of its students. Hers was a thoughtful and generous bequest."

Before her death in 1986, Mrs. Holland was a member of the First Baptist Church of Nashville and a teacher for many years in the Saratoga school system.

Riley-Hickingsbotham Library dedicated

New facility to provide computerized link-up with Henderson, 8,600 other libraries

The dedication Oct. 8 of Riley-Hickingsbotham Library marked the official opening of 47,305 square feet of new or renovated space for additional study areas, book storage, computerized services and future expansion.

The library, which for several years has shared a joint card-catalog system with Huie Library at Henderson State University, will soon feature an electronic linkage with the HSU facility through a central computer system.

The system will also provide students and faculty at both schools with access to stored information in 6,800 other libraries throughout the nation and abroad.

Included in the new and renovated space will be an increased number of individual study carrels, group study areas, seminar rooms and special sections for historical documents concerning the history of Clark County, the state of Arkansas and the Arkansas Baptist State Convention.

The $2-million project was made possible by a $500,000 challenge gift from Frank Hickingsbotham of Little Rock, president and chairman of the board of TCBY, Inc. The remaining $1.5 million was provided by the OBU Development Council, Board of Trustees and other friends of the university.

Hickingsbotham, a former student at Ouachita, said he had wanted to make a major gift to the school and considered the library project to be a way to challenge other donors to join in support of the new facility.

In January 1985, he established a $100,000 scholarship fund at Ouachita to benefit students planning to serve as ministers, missionaries, church staff workers or teachers in Baptist colleges and seminaries.

Dr. Ray Granade, the director of the library, said usage had increased 16 percent this year over the same period in 1986. The new design, he added, "provides a more logical, functional layout for library operation."

The computerized link-up of the OBU and HSU libraries is being accomplished in cooperation with the Joint Educational Consortium and the Ross Foundation, both of Arkadelphia. The consortium has contracted with CLSI, Inc., of Newtonville, Mass., to provide the system.

Riley-Hickingsbotham Library contains 122,000 volumes and more than 350,000 micro-prints and non-book materials. The facility is named for Hickingsbotham and for the late Emma Kate Riley, a major benefactor and a long-time member of the OBU Board of Trustees.

AN INVITATION

Written for the dedication of the Riley-Hickingsbotham Library

Oct. 8, 1987

by Johnny Wink

The light is falling quietly in this room.
It dyes the mouse-gray carpet, speckles walls.
It flecks the purple stairs and hides among the plants.
I see upon a shelf its blue-green avatar,
Which, even as I write, has been replaced
By orangy yellow. The quiet light perambulates
Among the books, the plants, the people,
Demanding nothing, offering itself to us,
An emissary from the deep October sky,
A thing to be beheld, a majesty.

The light comes through a circle at the top
Of the facade of Riley-Hickingsbotham.
The circle's made of etched and colored glass.
The image of our book is cut into it,
The figure of our flame emblazoned on it.
The sun's great candle power floods into the book
And, through the book, onto our plants and chairs
And floors, onto the very ground of our existence.

The glass is cut so that we may behold
Our lives, the lives of those around us
In richer colors, finer forms.
The book was made so that the sun
Of God's eternal light and truth might inundate
The rooms of our beginnings, our conclusions.

The books that sit among us, that we sit among
In this light-enchanted room are lights themselves,
As quiet in their entreaty as the patch
Of red and golden, green and purple light
That lies before me on the mouse-gray carpet,
Inviting me to revel in it —
But not insisting that I revel in it.

The books are full of light, are full of anger,
And joy and cleverness and wit and wisdom.
The books are life in life's great triumph
Of expression. The books are what we are,
Have been, and may become. The books are hope and fear.

O, Jesus, through whose etched and sundered flesh
We come to light and are revealed and nurtured,
Pray let us now accept your invitation
Into the light that falls from Light Itself,
That falls to us through stained glass windows
And frolics, suffers with us on the floors
Of our enlightened beings, that falls
Into the books that educate us
And lead us out into a world of wonders.

■ Colors filtering through the library's stained-glass window depicting the book and flame in Ouachita's symbol helped inspire the poem at right by Dr. Johnny Wink, associate professor of English.

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

THE TIGER NETWORK

by Dr. Wesley Kluck, M.D.
President, Former Student Association

By now all of you should have received a letter from me concerning student recruitment and placement and the role that OBU alumni can have in these areas. To this point, over 200 responses have been received, which is more evidence of the strong support Ouachita has from its former students. Hopefully, more responses will continue to be sent back to the Admissions Counseling Office. These alumni are now charter members of the "TIGER NETWORK" which is the name of this new endeavor to involve alumni more in the growth of Ouachita's enrollment and to strengthen OBU's placement service for graduating seniors.

The first project of the "TIGER NETWORK" is to obtain names of high school prospects for the freshman classes of 1988 and 1989. By November 15 of this year we are trying to obtain the names and addresses of high school juniors and seniors who are enrolled in the youth departments of each of our local churches. Even if you have not responded to our mailout, we urge you to participate in this project if you feel so led. By increasing the base list of prospective students, hopefully the enrollment can continue to grow as it has this past year.

An interesting fact was presented to me recently. For every new student who enrolls at OBU, the school is able to receive from $4,000 to $5,000 in operating expenses. You or I may never be able to contribute that much as a gift to Ouachita, but we can surely help by sending qualified new students to enroll in and attend our alma mater!

P.S. If you have misplaced the response card to our mailout, there is a copy of one just below this article. Just cut it out and send it to:

Juanita Barnett, former librarian, dies

Juanita McMillan Barnett, 72, Ouachita's librarian from 1936 until 1940 and again from 1956 until her retirement in 1983, died Sept. 17 in Little Rock.

She served as a member and an officer in several professional organizations including the American Library Association, the Southwestern Library Association, the Arkansas Library Association and the Arkansas Foundation of Associated Colleges Committee of Librarians.

She was also a member of the Arkadelphia Women's Library Association and the Clark County Historical Society.

In paying tribute to Mrs. Barnett, OBU President Daniel R. Grant said, "The contributions of Juanita Barnett to Ouachita go far beyond her 31 years of leadership in building an outstanding library. Her example of unselfish service, her quiet confidence in Ouachita's future and her encouraging smile have a permanent place in the hearts of Ouachitonians."

Mrs. Barnett, who had lived in Arkadelphia since childhood, received her bachelor of arts degree from Ouachita in 1936. She received her degree in library science the following year from George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn.

Programs for gifted, talented attract students to campus

Three programs offered by Ouachita during the summer for gifted and talented high school students included a study of Arkansas history, a simulation of the Constitutional Convention and a 12-day Pascal computer language camp.

All three programs were sponsored by the Arkansas Department of Education as part of its Academic Enrichment for Gifted in Summer (AEGIS) camps.

The three-week program on Arkansas history, co-directed by Dr. Raouf Halaby and his wife, Rachel, adopted the motto "Studying the past to understand the present to better prepare for the future."

Students visited several historic sites, including Old Washington, the state capitol, the Little Rock Port Authority, bathhouse row in Hot Springs, the Mid-American Museum and Shady Lake near Arkadelphia, to study "the delicate balance between industrial output and the environment," Halaby said.

In the study of the U.S. Constitution, 55 student delegates heard presentations from Ouachita faculty members on the social, political and religious positions held during the making of the historic document. The students then divided into delegations representing the 13 original colonies, debated the issues faced during that period and then developed their own constitution.

Students attending the computer camp applied the logic structure learned in Pascal and bouillion algebra to build an electrical model of a computer. Each student also completed nine computer programs before the camp ended.

The three AEGIS programs at Ouachita were among 27 offered during the summer for gifted and talented students in the state.

Two Arkadelphia churches join in mission trip to Amazon

Medical and construction teams unite to pull teeth, build parsonage, lead classes

by Deborah Aronson
Class of 1988

It was 4:30 in the morning on the Amazon River. I could hear every rooster begin to crow in the tiny village of Paracari even though our boat was a mile from the shore. At daybreak, I knew I would hear the monkeys begin to sing.

As I gently swung in my hammock, I wondered if the sunrise would be as beautiful as the sunset had been the night before. I was not disappointed.

The boat rocked slightly as the members of the medical team slowly crawled out of their hammocks to prepare for another day of hard work in Paracari, one of the many villages included in the two-week mission trip sponsored by the First and Second Baptist churches of Arkadelphia.

Both of the mission trip's teams lived on river boats, slept in hammocks, drank bottled water and ate fish out of the Amazon. Because we were only three degrees from the equator, the heat was intense but not unbearable. The teams got a break during siesta, however, which was from noon until 2 p.m., the hottest part of the day.

I had been asked to come along to document the trip. It was an entirely new experience for me, one that I will never forget. I vividly remember, for example, the faces of the village children when they were given such simple things as plastic combs. They accepted them as if they had been handed $100 bills.

The medical team consisted of two dentists, one of whom was Dr. Jimmy Hankins, a 1975 graduate of OBU.

He and the other dentist, Dr. Charles Hartsfield of Jacksonville, pulled more than 900 teeth during the 14 days we were in Brazil. The dental assistants who helped them are now juniors at Ouachita: Margie Bright and Stephanie Hartsfield. Stephanie is in Japan this year as an exchange student at Seinan Gakuin University.

The interpreters who helped the dentists are also students at OBU: Elmer de Paula, a junior, and Boyd Walker, a senior. Elmer is from Bellem, Para, Brazil. Boyd is the son of Dr. Richard Walker, a 1956 graduate who has served as a missionary in Brazil since 1964.

Boyd spent most of his summer in Brazil making arrangements for the trip. His father was with the construction and Vacation Bible School team, which remained in Alenquer while the medical team visited several villages along the Amazon.

In Alenquer, the team members built a parsonage, while the women conducted Bible school for the children and nutrition classes for the women. Dr. Walker preached in Alenquer almost every night.

The construction/VBS team consisted of several other members of the Ouachita family including administrators, faculty, staff, former and current students and even a dorm mother. B. Aldon Dixon, Ouachita's dean of students, for example, not only assisted in construction projects but also was involved in planning and organizing the mission trip. He brought along his wife, Snookie, and their two sons, David and Chris. David is a junior at Ouachita.

■ A Brazilian girl awaits her turn as Dr. Jimmy Hankins (right), a 1975 graduate of Ouachita, performs dental work on another patient.

Also representing the school was the Randy Childs family. Randy is a member of the OBU maintenance staff, and his wife, Linda, is a secretary in the Roy and Christine Sturges Physical Education Center. They were accompanied by their two daughters, Shawna and Miranda, who is a sophomore at Ouachita.

"Mom" Francis Smith, dorm mother of Daniel North, assisted with Vacation Bible School and conducted a session on vitamins for the Brazilian women in Alenquer.

Sherwin Williams, a CPA in Arkadelphia, a member of Ouachita's

Board of Trustees and a part-time accounting instructor at Ouachita, helped with construction. His wife, Wanda, a 1969 graduate of OBU, assisted with nutrition classes and Vacation Bible School.

Two Brazilian students, Christina Maltez and Alberto Gomes, were interpreters for the VBS team. Christina is a sophomore at Ouachita, and Alberto is a senior.

Jeff Bearden was another of the OBU graduates who made the trip. He is now enrolled in a few pre-med courses at Ouachita. Other members of the Ouachita family who were a part of the construction/VBS team were Dana Combs, senior; P. J. Temple, sophomore; Deborah Aronson, senior, and Cliff Walker, a former student.

Pulling teeth, giving out glasses, building the houses and helping with medical problems are some of the reasons the team was in Brazil, but the primary reason the 30 people from the two Baptist churches of Arkadelphia traveled to the Amazon this summer was to glorify God's name and to show, through their love and concern, that the God they serve is real.

Martin Thielen notified book to be published

Martin Thielen, who graduated from Ouachita in 1978, has been notified by Broadman Press that his book, "Getting Ready for Sunday: A Practical Guide for Worship Planning," has been accepted for publication.

Francis McBeth honored by ASCAP, remembered by former student

Dr. W. Francis McBeth, Ouachita's composer in residence and the Lena Goodwin Trimble Professor of Music, has received the 1987-88 ASCAP Award for the 22nd consecutive year.

The awards, announced by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, are granted by an independent panel and are based on an evaluation of each recipient's catalog and the performances of his compositions.

Morton Gould, ASCAP president, said the awards "reflect our continuing commitment to assist and encourage writers of serious music."

McBeth, who in 1974 was listed in "School Musician" as one of the top 10 music educators in the United States and Canada, is an internationally acclaimed artist whose compositions for band are performed around the world.

In addition to impressing a distinguished panel of ASCAP judges, "Mac" has also thoroughly impressed a 1985 Ouachita graduate, Nina Stewart, who now lives in Owatonna, Minn.

After attending a recent band concert at nearby St. Olaf College honoring the 30th anniversary of the band's conductor, Miles "Mitie" Johnson, she had asked her uncle to introduce her to the well-known musician.

"The minute I mentioned Ouachita Baptist University," she said, "Mitie Johnson perked up and asked, 'Do you know . . . ?' and then hesitated."

"Francis McBeth?"

"Yes," he said, "Francis McBeth. One of the greats."

"Dr. McBeth," she exclaimed, "is Ouachita's Mitie."

Nina works full time for Colonial Insurance Co. and part time at the First Baptist Church.

The experience at the band concert, she said, is "proof positive once again that there is something special about private education and the people it enrolls."

She studied psychology and religion at Ouachita, she said, and was active in drama, S.E.L.F., the Ouachita Student Foundation, BSU and intramurals.

"Plus," she said, "I am a proud charter member of the Cone-Bottom Babies, having resided there for three and a half years. My mentors at Ouachita include Charles Chambliss, Tom Greer, Wes Lites, Steve Phillips and Weldon Vogt."

10 new faculty members hired to fill departmental vacancies

Ten new faculty members have been employed for the fall term at Ouachita.

They include Craig Price, religion; Byron Eubanks, humanities; David Ozmum, communications; Craig Hodges, music; Stephen Tackett, languages; Lt. Col. Billy McCrary, military science; Glenn Thomas, psychology-counselor; Ruth Anne Tune, sociology; Anne Selph, mathematics, and Robert Steinmiller, speech-English.

Craig Price, an instructor in religion, received his B.A. in 1976 and M.A. in 1978 from the University of Florida and the master of divinity degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth in 1984. In addition, he has completed all course work toward the Ph.D. degree.

Byron Eubanks, instructor in humanities, received his B.A. from Ouachita in 1980, his master of divinity degree in 1985 from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville and his M.A. from the University of Arkansas-Fayetteville in 1986.

David Ozmum, instructor in communications, received his B.S. degree in radio and television from Southern Illinois University and his M.A. in communication from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Craig Hodges, assistant professor of music, received his B.A. in music from Kalamazoo College, Mich., in 1976, his master of music in vocal performance in 1977 from Colorado State University and his doctor of musical arts in vocal performance and research in 1983 from the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Before coming to Ouachita, he had served as instructor of music at the seminary, assistant professor of music at Campbellsville College, Ky., and as assistant professor of vocal and choral music at Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky.

Stephen Tackett, instructor in languages, received his B.A. degree in 1977 and his M.A. in 1986 from Memphis State University.

Lt. Col. Bill McCrary, professor of military science, received his B.A. in 1968 and M.B.A. in finance in 1977 from Sam Houston State University in Huntsville, Tex.

Glenn Thomas, instructor in psychology who will also serve as University counselor, received his B.A. with emphasis in psychology and biblical studies in 1983 and a second B.A. in psychology in 1984 from the University of Pretoria in South Africa. He has begun work on the M.A. in clinical psychology and completed one year of full-time internship in clinical psychology in December 1986.

Ruth Anne Tune, assistant professor of sociology, received her B.A. in elementary education from the University of Dallas in 1973, her M.A. in sociology from Southern Methodist University in 1976 and her Ph.D. in sociology from the University of Texas-Austin in 1987.

Before coming to Ouachita, he was assistant professor of speech and theater at Arkansas College in Batesville.

Paul Henry, '49, announces retirement from ConAgra

Paul K. Henry, a member of the board of trustees at OBU and vice president of industry and government relations at ConAgra Consumer Frozen Food Company, has announced his retirement effective Sept. 1.

Henry joined the company in 1951 when it was known as Southerland Companies. In his years with the organization, he held the positions of general manager and vice president of broiler operations. Before joining the company, Henry had been associated with Commercial Credit Corporation and The Equitable Insurance Company.

In congratulating Henry on his re-

retirement, OBU President Daniel R. Grant said, "I hope this retirement means that Paul Henry can now begin devoting his full time to public relations, student recruitment and fund raising for his alma mater, Ouachita, in addition to his serving as a Ouachita trustee. Some might say he has already been working full time for Ouachita, and they would not be far from the truth."

Aside from his 36 years of service with the company, Henry currently serves on the Arkansas Livestock & Poultry Commission and as a board member of the Arkansas Good Roads organization and Arkansas Rural Endowment. In 1965 the Arkansas

Poultry Industry named Henry the recipient of its Man of the Year Award.

He served two terms in the Arkansas House of Representatives, two terms as president of the Arkansas Poultry Federation, as a board member for the America Poultry Industries, as a board and executive committee member of the National Broiler Council and as past president of the Batesville Chamber of Commerce.

A native of Maumelle, Henry and his wife, Virginia, plan to reside in Batesville after his retirement from ConAgra. He graduated in 1949 from Ouachita.

■ LIBRARY COOPERATION — A contract signed last week provides an electronic linkage of the libraries of Henderson State University and Ouachita Baptist University through a central computer system. Joining in the signing ceremonies were Jane Ross, Ross Foundation; OBU President Dr. Daniel R. Grant; HSU President Dr. Charles Dunn; Sean O'Doherty, CLSI, Inc., and Robert Rhodes of the Ross Foundation.

Contracts signed for computerized library service

The Joint Educational Consortium of Arkadelphia, which is an association of Ouachita, Henderson State University, and the Ross Foundation of Arkadelphia, has contracted with CLSI, Inc., of Newtonville, Mass., to provide an electronic linkage of the two university libraries through a central computer system.

This system will manipulate a machine-readable data base to provide state-of-the-art access to the library resources of HSU and OBU. An earlier cooperative effort in this area included a union card catalog between the two schools.

Costs of the project will be borne by the two universities and the Ross Foundation.

"The system should be in full operation within the next 12 months," said Dr. Dolphus Whitten, Jr., executive director of the JEC.

In reference to the signing of the computer system contract, President Charles Dunn of Henderson said, "The computerized system represents a renewed commitment of the two universities and the Ross Foundation to provide academic excellence through greater cooperation. It is a most significant step, and there is much more that we can do in this regard. We are limited only by our imaginations."

Equally enthusiastic was President Daniel Grant of Ouachita, who said, "Once again we are grateful to the Ross Foundation for supporting an exciting cooperative effort to strengthen the libraries of Ouachita and Henderson and, ultimately, of the entire region. The computerizing of the library resources and the electronic link between the two campuses gives us a learning resource center on the cutting edge of the information age revolution."

Benson elected to Hall of Fame

Buddy Benson, head football coach and associate professor of physical education at Ouachita, has been elected into the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Football Hall of Fame.

Benson, selected in the Coach category, will be honored at a banquet by the NAIA in January.

Benson has worked 22 years at Ouachita, directing his Tigers to 127 winning games, 89 losses and five ties. He is the third winningest active coach in total number of victories in NAIA Division I.

With Benson's selection to the Hall of Fame, seven Ouachita coaches, former coaches and former athletes have been tabbed for the prestigious honor in the past 10 years. Others honored include: Bill Vining, Sr., head men's basketball coach and athletic director; Carolyn Moffatt, former women's basketball coach; Dr. Bob Gravett, head track and field coach; Cliff Harris, former star player for the Tigers and the Dallas Cowboys; Leon Clements, former Ouachita great in basketball, and Gerald Masterson, an All American track star. Both Vining and Harris are also members of the Arkansas Sports Hall of Fame.

A 1956 graduate of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, Benson's Tigers have won or shared the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference championship four times (1966, '70, '75 and '82) since he accepted the head coach position in 1965.

Benson has coached nine NAIA First Team All American football players, one of whom was Cliff Harris who went on to football stardom for 10 years as the starting free safety for the Dallas Cowboys.

Frank Broyles, director of athletics at the University of Arkansas, said, "Whatever praise and high regard he has been given for his accomplishments on the field, Buddy has earned much more credit for what he has stood for and for his personal integrity. His anxious regard for the high standards of our profession has always been his trademark. His principles, attitudes and values were never compromised."

T. W. Hunt named to new SBC post

T. W. Hunt has been named to a newly created position as prayer consultant in the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board's church training department.

Hunt, 57, has been a professor of church music at Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas, for 24 years. He is the author of the 1987 adult Baptist doctrine study textbook on prayer and a 13-week Lay Institute for Equipping course, Prayer-Life, to be released in January, 1988.

Roy Edgemon, director of the church training department, said the new position has been created to develop a network of prayer groups undergirding Southern Baptist efforts to share the gospel with every person in the world by the year 2000. He described Hunt as a "leading prayer warrior" in the convention. (from Ohio Baptist Messenger)

Vining in Top 10 of 'winningest' coaches

Bill Vining, Sr., head men's basketball coach and athletic director at Ouachita, is currently listed in tenth place among the nation's winningest active men's collegiate/university basketball coaches entering the 1987-88 season by the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

Vining has compiled a total of 538 victories in 32 seasons at the helm of the Tiger basketball program.

The top coach in the nation in terms of total victories is Clarence Gaines of Winston-Salem State University in Winston-Salem, N.C., with 769 wins in 41 seasons.

Dr. and Mrs. Tom Turner recall experience in establishing program in China

By William D. Downs Jr.

It's one thing to talk about accepting the Southern Baptist Convention's challenge to take a year out of your life to teach in the People's Republic of China.

But when Dr. Tom Turner, Ouachita's vice president for academic affairs, and his wife Marie were waiting to board a Northwest Orient jet that would take them across the Pacific Ocean to spend the next 10 months as teachers in a country where they barely knew how to even say "hello," reality began to settle in with a vengeance.

"Do we know what we are doing?" he remembers asking her.

Marie could only shake her head slowly in mute bewilderment. Despite their fears, however, they remember even then feeling the strong leadership of the Lord.

This fall the two of them are back in Arkadelphia. Other than the fact that Tom lost 15 to 20 pounds (because, he said, "There is just so much you can do with green peppers, onions, noodles and rice"), he and Marie are none the worse for wear. In fact, he said, the experience has permanently and profoundly changed their values and their lives.

The idea of going to China in the first place occurred to Tom back in 1984 when he attended a meeting of presidents and deans of Southern Baptist schools. Missionaries were forbidden in China, he was told. But the Chinese government would, however, permit teachers to enter the country, Christian educators who were willing to spend up to a year sharing their knowledge but not their faith — unless they were asked to do so.

He might have let it go at that had he not talked about a year later with Professor C. K. Zhang, who was at Ouachita to arrange the enrollment of his granddaughter, Marie.

"That turned me on," he said.

The final decision came after a conversation with a Foreign Mission Board representative accompanying Professor Zhang. This was the perfect opportunity, Tom was told, to establish an exchange program with a Chinese university.

"It certainly appeared as if the Lord had all this in mind," Tom said.

He was granted a year's leave of absence to teach physics and to develop a research program as a "foreign expert" in Zhengzhou University in Henan Province.

As far as Marie was concerned, she knew that she would be expected to teach English, but she didn't know exactly what would be involved. Given the facts that she had never taught a day in her life and had absolutely no idea how or what she would communicate with her Chinese-speaking students, she was, to say the least, "apprehensive," Tom remembered, as they prepared to board the plane.

After spending the next three days in Hong Kong, they were accompanied by Zhengzhou by Mrs. Grace Han, a Christian philanthropist from Chicago who had worked closely with the Foreign Mission Board in getting the Turners to China. Ouachita alumni Don and Almeda Elliott of Cabot were also in the group. The Turners were required to wait for almost three weeks in the International Hotel, however, before permission was granted by the Provincial Ministry of Education for them to go to Zhengzhou University.

The busiest rail junction in China, Zhengzhou is a city of 1.6 million where most of the families share cramped quarters in a sprawling array of look-alike, six-story apartment buildings.

"It was as if these good people were living on top of each other," Tom said. "They were swarming all over everywhere. Just about everybody we saw was riding a bicycle. They appeared to be happy and healthy. In fact, you just never saw a fat person. The men either wore blue or khaki Mao jackets, but the women's apparel was beginning to brighten up."

Once they were settled into their small apartment and had made contact with Zhengzhou University officials, Marie asked what she would be teaching.

"Conversational English," she was told politely.

"How should I teach it?" she asked.

"Just talk to them."

"Talk about what?" she persisted.

Getting no reply from her Chinese hosts who said it really didn't matter, she persisted until she was finally given a textbook for some of her classes: a Chinese-English book used to introduce life in the United States. It was to serve as her text for the rest of the year.

Their students were enrolled in only three or four classes: physics, mathematics, physical education and a required "political" course in communism in Tom's case, while Marie's students were enrolled in several classes in English, sports and politics.

"When I called the roll," Tom recalled with some amusement, "the students would laugh hysterically" because of his butchered pronunciations of their names.

One of the most striking differences he noticed immediately between Chinese and American students was that the Chinese were better prepared in the sciences.

"I was teaching second-year students what is normally taught to seniors back in the United States," he said. It's not that the Chinese students are any smarter than their American counterparts, he said, but only that the Chinese don't believe in general education subjects. As a result, they get into a deeper level of physics much earlier in the college careers.

"For the Chinese," he said, "a college education is strictly vocational."

The students, many of whom came from peasant homes, he said, "knock themselves out" to get into the university. But once they are admitted, they tend to be rather "lazy," at least during their freshman and sophomore years.

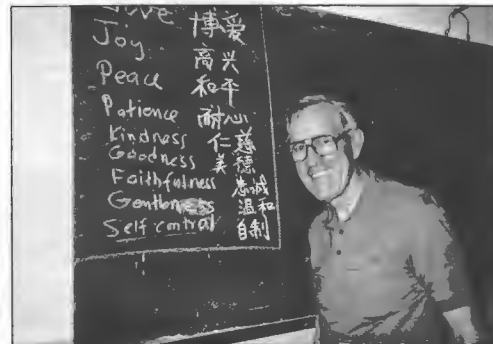

"I tried to challenge them," he said, "but it is very, very difficult. The problem is that there is a huge complacency among young people in China because everyone is eating out of the same iron bowl, to use their expression. They know the government will give them everything they really need, so motivation becomes a real problem."

By the time the year ended, he had established a continuing exchange of faculty between the two schools and a soon-to-be-announced Summer Institute beginning in 1988 for Ouachita students to study the culture and language of China at Zhengzhou. Dr. Tom Greer, professor of English at Ouachita, his wife Angie and one of their two sons, Kent, are already there to take the Turners' place. Consideration is being given to having a professor from Zhengzhou spend a year at Ouachita.

The greatest satisfaction for the Turners during their year in China, however, was in seeing the results of their interaction with the Chinese students. We were very gratified at their response.

Since returning to the United States, the Turners have received several letters from their former students, who say that they are grateful that their lives have been changed.

As far as Marie is concerned, she really shouldn't have worried about teaching in the first place, Tom said, because she turned out to be the "star."

"I'll love you forever," wrote one student, while another wrote, "You have planted a smile in the hearts of every one of your students."

The Chinese people "were very gracious hosts who love their country," Tom said. "They wanted their interaction with us to enable them to lead rich, full lives and to better serve their country."

Noting that one-fourth of the world's population now lives in China, Tom said, "We need to be aware of this as we look ahead to the world we will be living in for the next 20 years."

As Ouachita pursues its Second Century goals, which include an increasingly global emphasis, the Zhengzhou University exchange program could not have come at a better time, Tom said.

"Life can never be dull again," he said, recalling an anonymous poem, "When once we've thrown our windows open wide/And seen the mighty world that lies outside,/And whispered to ourselves this wondrous thing,/We're wanted for the business of the king!"

■ In case you missed it, that was Henry "Hank" Dempsey (right), Class of 1964, who attracted national attention Sept. 3 when he fell through the open exit of his airplane about 4,000 feet over the Atlantic Ocean . . . and survived. A commuter pilot, Dempsey was checking out a noise around the rear exit of the Beechcraft 99 when turbulence threw him against the door, which "popped open and sucked me out," he said. Grabbing on to the railing of the exit door, he hung on upside down until his co-pilot landed the plane 15 minutes later in Bangor, Maine. Dempsey, who is 6'4", graduated from Ouachita with a degree in music and returned later for his master's degree. For a while there, he said, it looked as if he were going to be "fishbait." Gifts and grants reach $4,665,495 in '86-'87

Thank you for a record total for gifts and grants to Ouachita this year: $4,665,495. Needs continue to be great, but your response this year indicates that available resources for meeting those needs have never been greater.

Those contributing $1,000 or more as undesignated gifts or as gifts for budgeted items (200 for the Future Members) increased from 49 in 1985-86 to 100 in 1986-87. They are identified with an asterisk.

Of course, many others chose to designate their gifts for the library, for endowment, or for other special needs. Some of these contributed literally tens of thousands of dollars. Whether your gift was for $100,000 or $10, we thank you! You made a difference this year.
